DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 24, 25, 27, 28, 30-32, 34, 35, 37, 39, 40, 42, 43, 45 and 46 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Tantry et al.

Tantry et al. shows, figure 6, an object-oriented architecture for factory floor management (supply chain network). There are multiple barcode readers (DSE), which are linked to communication managers (adapters). The combination of the two is a (SDA). Standard TCP/IP protocol is used (Universal Protocol). Database 66 is the data center. Application servers are the site servers and event handlers. Callback routines map user interactions from the X-server (X-events) to specific Application Engine functionality. Thus, Application Engines bridge the user interface widget library (description documents) with the factory services/factory object library.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 26, 29, 33, 36, 38, 41, and 44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tantry et al.

Tantry et al. shows all of the limitations of the claims except for specifying the use of XML dotted notation

The examiner takes Official Notice that the use of XML and dotted notation are old and well known and that it would be obvious to use them in order to take advantage of standardized methods.

Based on the discussion above, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to modify the Tantry et al. system to use XML and dotted notation in order to take advantage of standardized methods.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 10/17/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant asserts that the invention generates mapping occurring at different types of data source equipment around a global supply chain, whereas Tantry merely maps entities of a local factory floor. This is not relevant because there are no claim limitations to prevent Tantry from reading on the claims.

Applicant asserts that Tantry fails to disclose the site data appliances. The examiner does not concur. The SDAs are very broadly defined. Applicant should be reminded that method steps in an apparatus have little patentable weight.

Applicant continues with each element and is reading limitations into the elements, which are not positively recited.

Applicant has challenged the examiner's Official Notice. Please review the application history to realize why this is already admitted prior art.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
